

POST: Training Assistant - AfriSchools

AfriGrow is a Non Profit Company which provides agricultural development services to smallholder farmers in South Africa. One of our projects, AfriSchools, establishes and develops food gardens in schools. AfriSchools seeks to appoint a Training Assistant, based in Rustenburg, North West, for a term of 12 months.

Reporting to the training manager, the incumbent will be responsible for implementing a crop production programme for schools' food gardens that produce an abundance of healthy crops for the school children as well as for the market place. The incumbent will also be responsible for implementing a training programme for beneficiaries that promotes skills development and empowerment. Training conducted will be formal sessions as well as on-the-ground practical guidance.

Responsibilities:

- Under the guidance and instruction of the training manager, implement a crop production programme, which includes trees, vegetables and medicinal plants.
- Conduct training workshops that are both theoretical and practical.
- Demonstrate effective garden cultivation techniques and systems.

Requirements:

- At least 3 years' experience in implementing crop production systems.
- At least 2 years' experience in engaging with communities and conducting training workshops.
- A high level of computer literacy.
- Excellent communication skills in Setswana and English.
- Good writing skills.
- Excellent records keeping skills.

Personal Attributes:

- A hands-on, practical approach.
- Excellent communication and interpersonal skills.
- Environmentally aware and conscious.

Salary: R 120 000 (CTC) per annum.

To apply, submit a CV, contact details of three referees and motivation letter detailing your interest in and suitability for the position to recruitment@afriGrow.org or fax to 086 458 2716.

Only shortlisted candidates will be contacted to attend an interview.

2 500 Sibanye retrenchments?

Trade union Solidarity on 12 July 2016 said it would do everything in its power to prevent possible retrenchments at Sibanye, Westonaria. This comes in the wake of reports that around 2 500 jobs at the company's Cooke 4 mine are in jeopardy.

In its report on retrenchments issued earlier this year, Solidarity indicated that approximately 30 000 jobs in the mining industry have come under threat during the past year. That being the case Solidarity would pull out all the stops to prevent more jobs being affected in the industry.

"Solidarity already had a very positive informal discussion with the Sibanye management, during which both parties committed themselves to a process to investigate all possible alternatives to prevent forced retrenchments," Solidarity General Secretary Gideon du Plessis said.

"During our discussion with the Sibanye management it came to our attention that many vacancies exist within the Sibanye Group. We will therefore encourage our members working at Cooke 4 to immediately accept any transfers to another Sibanye mine or shaft, thereby ensuring job security," Du Plessis said.

Du Plessis also warned that any labour unrest that could possibly arise from the process would only aggravate the situation at Cooke 4 and in dealing with the situation at Sibanye the focus should be on the long term. "We are appealing to all parties involved to participate constructively in the consultation process. The state of labour relations could have a very real impact on the future of South Africa's credit rating.
